

MARTIN GOOCH

Director

With a background in the camera department, some twenty self-penned and self-produced shorts, stints on 'Doctors' and 'Hollyoaks', and umpteen promos, commercials and live action shoots behind him, no-one could say that Martin Gooch has not served his apprenticeship as a director. His work on Kudos's 'Spooks Interactive' gained the show a BAFTA and an Emmy nomination in 2008, and an episode of 'Doctors' he directed was nominated for an ITV Soap Award in 2007. In addition, his short films have picked up numerous awards on the indie and festival circuit. He has a huge understanding both of storytelling and of filming, and has very much his own voice as a director. Based in London, he is available for work worldwide.
