SASKA SIMPSON

Editor

Saska was Tariq Anwar's First Assistant and Assembly Editor for eight years and was his Associate Editor on "Stage Beauty". She made the break to Editor in her own right with the BAFTA nominated "Je T'aime, John Wayne" and has subsequently demonstrated her versatility in a range of work encompassing award-winning short films and commercials, acclaimed documentaries and feature films. She is also an experienced VFX editor, having handled CGI material on many films. She is based in London and available for work worldwide.

References:

"Many of my assistants have gone on to have successful careers as feature film editors, but none has shown more flair than Saska. She has a great editorial sense, not only in terms of shot to shot internal editing but more importantly, she has an intuitive eye for narrative structure. She has shown an ability to work under extreme pressure with composure, humour and patience. She is in every way a complete editor."

Tariq Anwar (Editor)

"Saska is an excellent editor: creative, stylish, diligent, up to speed on all the latest technology and has most importantly a sure sense of story."

JP Davidson (Producer/Director)
